ROSS, WYOMING

January 22nd 1914.

Dr. Charles B. Peckrose,
Philadelphia,
Pa.

My dear Doctor.

I am in receipt of yours enclosing Miss Hubbard's letter, I am in same mail with this writing her, asking her to send you her copy of "On Special Assignment" direct. I have read the book, and was not favorably impressed by it. Its tone is decidedly a case of blow your own horn, as no body else will, besides many of his statements are not true, and there a certain things he might have written which he was careful not to allude to, Any question you desire to ask me I shall answer with pleasure if I am able.

Very truly yours,

W. C. Irvine,

My dear Doctor,

I am in receipt of yours enclosing Miss Hebard's letter. I am in same mail with this writing her, asking her to send you her copy of "On Special Assignment" direct. I have read the book, and was not favorably impressed by it. Its tone is decidedly a case of blow your own horn, as nobody else will, besides many of his statements are not true, and there a[re] certain things he might have written which he was careful not to allude to. Any question you desire to ask me I shall answer with pleasure if I am able.

Very truly yours,
